WANT ALL FACTS

He said financiers were all trying to get at facts and discover whether there was any real possibility of British Columbia deferring interest payments. These financiers, of course, want to get their clients out of the British Columbia investment immediately if they come to the conclusion that default is in sight.

"It is not only the British Columbia situation which worries us," this leading authority said, "but the effect ships. He added International Mercantile Marine holds stock in the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, owner of the White Star, as collateral. Franklin was opposed to the merger agreement whereby the would receive 62 per cent of the stock in the new corporation. Injunction proceedings were filed March 2.

Mr. Justice Eve, however, declared the International Mercantile Marine was not a shareholder in the Oceanic, saying the plaintiff's assertion that it alone was beneficially interested in a majority of Oceanic shares was not borne out.

Explaining the shares in question were vested in the trustees, the judge said the United States company's interests were limited to having the proceeds of the sale applied toward any money due it.

The International Mercantile Marine had contended the merger would in effect be a sale of the assets and undertakings of the Oceanic, which was outside the power of both the company and its directors.

of serious trouble in British Columbia on all Canadian securities. Up to now all parts of the British Empire have paid their bills and we have regarded any British government security as unquestionably sound. If even so small a part of the British Empire as British Columbia were to default, this would come as a staggering surprise to the whole United States money market. It would certainly wreck B.C. credit for many years to come and damage that of other provinces and of the Dominion."

Discussing the subject with other financial men, The Times correspondent found that since negotiations between Mr. Bennett and Mr. Pattullo had encountered difficulty, all big bond offices in New York had endeavored to discover what the British Columbia government intended to do. Leading financiers plan to meet John Hart and ask a definite statement of his intentions. If Mr. Pattullo comes here, he will be questioned in detail.

OTTAWA WOULD PAY
 Mr. Hart has to meet a $2,000,000 maturity in New York in the next few months. Without guarantee of uninterrupted interest payments this year, refunding of this loan will be impossible, the correspondent was assured. In any case, permission of Washington authorities must be obtained and would not be granted if the province intended to defer payments. But the general opinion of "the street" is that the federal government will not and cannot allow any province to default on interest. Rightly or wrongly the street believes Ottawa, if forced to the limit, will pay the interest on British Columbia securities itself.

It is this assumption which has prevented a sudden break in the B.C. bond market. Curiously enough, it has shown no weakness as the result of recent developments. This, financiers say, is only explainable by the public's confidence in the Canadian government.

Quick steps will be taken to revise the duties upward in the homeland on silk and other Japanese products and then the Dominions will be urged to do likewise.

The government anticipates full Dominion co-operation, it was said in high circles to-day, because of Britain's willingness to extend empire trade.

Mr. Thomas declared every effort would be made to intensify the exchange of products among the empire's Dominions and colonies. Besides import quotas on cotton and rayon goods from Japan, Mr. Runciman disclosed the government is considering placing quotas against other commodities.

By Glenn Babb, Associated Press Staff Writer
 Tokyo, May 8.—A high Foreign Office official said to-day Japan has been "driven" to import quotas against Japanese competition in the market. The official said the Anglo-Japanese treaty, however, he added, Japan will withhold retaliatory action, seeking first to protect her treaty rights through diplomatic methods and also studying the possible effects of such action on Japanese trade with other nations.

LEADERS' OPINION
 At Osaka, textile leaders expressed the opinion the quotas, announced in London yesterday by Rt. Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the British Board of Trade, would do little harm to Japanese trade.

If British action to place restrictions on Japan's exports to crown colonies, starting Wednesday, goes no farther than Mr. Runciman indicated, it would not be necessary for the Tokyo Government to act.

 Paris, May 8.—Mme. Joseph Caillaux, wife of the former Premier, who shot and killed Gaston Calmette, editor of Figaro, in 1914, was slightly injured to-day by young Royalists. They set upon her in the Louvre Museum in a demonstration against her appearance on a lecture platform. She was bruised in the scuffle.

Sir J. Anderson, Bengal, Not Injured; Police Kill One of Two Assaultants

 Darjeeling, Bengal, India, May 8.—Two Bengalis fired revolvers at Governor-General Sir John Anderson at a race meeting at Lebong to-day.

Sir John was not injured, but police killed one of the Bengalis and seriously wounded the other. A British woman was wounded slightly by one of the assassin's bullets.

Sir John was standing with his daughter at the time they were attacked from close range. The permanent police guard, which always accompanies the governor, immediately opened fire on the two men, later identified as Decca terrorists.

A strong military police guard was immediately placed around the race course, in a suburb of Darjeeling. Several persons were arrested.

Several previous attempts have been made on the life of Sir John, who has waged constant warfare against terrorists. Bombs were set off where he was attending exercises, and an attempt was made to wreck his train with a bomb a month earlier.

Province Makes Big Contribution

$30,000,000 A YEAR
 For instance, the Dominion government takes from B.C. about $30,000,000 a year in customs and excise taxes and the sales tax. Among these charges are $2,000,000 a year on the liquor coming into B.C., on which there is a heavy duty. The excise on tobacco runs to about $1,250,000 a year. The sales tax itself takes something like $10,000,000 a year from the province and then there is the income tax, which runs to about $5,000,000 a year.

In return for this heavy contribution to the Dominion exchequer the province gets comparatively little. A comparison of the five-year period of 1928-31, completed here, shows that against payments of $107,697,000 in customs and excise taxes and duties, B.C. received only $3,694,000 in subsidies. The income tax in the same period ran to $23,000,000.

A recent formula computed by Byron Johnson, M.P.P., Victoria, relates that the excess charges paid by B.C. automobile purchasers last year as "protection" for eastern manufacturers were equivalent to practically the entire sum received in this province for lumber sold in the east. This is a result of the tariff system. The cars purchased in B.C. brought about $3,500,000 when they could have been bought for about one-third less in Seattle. At the same time B.C. lumber sales to Eastern Canada did not fetch much more than $1,250,000.

The Premier said he had observed in the morning press the British move to restrict Japanese trade, but he preferred not to make any comment at the time other than to say the government of the United Kingdom has 45,000,000 people to look after and it was its duty to look after them. Intense nationalism, he believed, was leading to war. Notwithstanding the knowledge of every intelligent person that such was the case, the nations pursued a nationalistic course.

TWO RETURNING
 Mr. Hart and Mr. Sloan intend to start their return journey to British Columbia to-day. The Premier's stay in New York is indefinite, but he will probably be here until Thursday. He will visit Montreal and Toronto again before returning to Victoria.

The delegation stated they were willing to work full time for relief if they will pay $4.25 per day. This rate is based on the 10 cent of living which has advanced 93 per cent while relief scale has only been raised 18 per cent. FINANCE WEEK IS ORGANIZED

Life Insurance Companies to Unite For Publicity Campaign May 28 to June 2

With 3,000,000 policyholders in Canada and $6,250,000,000 of business in force, life insurance companies operating in the Dominion are co-operating to observe a national "Financial Independence Through Life Insurance" week, from May 28 to June 2.

During this period, the life companies, in co-operation with the Life Underwriters' Associations across the country, will use extensive publicity measures to emphasize the value of thrift and the merits of life insurance in insuring financial independence providing for old age, protecting dependents and building up estates.

Previous to last year, only one "day" was set aside for such activities, but with the return of better business conditions, the movement has been extended and intensified.

National and working committees in charge of this year's activities are meeting with marked success, and preparations are well advanced. Newspaper advertising, posters, speeches, radio and other publicity forces will be used to insure the success of the week.

OLDSMOBILE SMART CAR

Many Features in New Model Now on Display at
H. A. Davis Showrooms

The 1934 Oldsmobile six, on display to-day at the showrooms of H. A. Davis Limited, corner Fort and Quadra Streets, is described as an "all-feature" six. One of the features is the price, which is down in the low bracket, bringing the Oldsmobile six into the field of volume sales. A successful year for the Oldsmobile six seemed assured from the moment advance models went on display at the motor shows, where, incidentally, they won a style census award against all comers in their class. Other features noted besides price and style are the eighty-four-horsepower engine, which smoothly accelerates from five to sixty miles an hour in less than half a minute; knee-action front wheels, super-hydraulic brakes, silent gears at all speeds and more miles per gallon. Undoubtedly, it is the Oldsmobile six's stylish lines that have made it a favorite at the preview. The hood is longer and the new radiator grill slopes at a decided angle from top to bottom. The windshield has a rakish rearward slope. Two torpedo-shaped louvers on each side of the hood are integral with the hood panel. The small diameter long-shaft-shaped headlamps add a harmonious touch. The crowns of the fender have been lengthened and the corners of the valances rounded off.

VICTORIAN IS CLUB LEADER

P. B. Scurrah Nominated
Unanimously to Post of Rotary District Governor

Once again Victoria Rotarians were honored with the conferring of highest district honors on one of their members with the unanimous nomination of Percy B. Scurrah to the post of district governor at the Tacoma district convention yesterday. Word of his nomination was received here late yesterday evening. Mr. Scurrah, a member of long standing in the local club and former president of the district, was elected to the office at the Rotary International convention in Detroit in June.

He goes to his new post following a very active career with the local club and the northwest district. His nomination yesterday marked the return of a Victorian to the post which has previously been held by other men of this city, including James H. Beatty. The nomination was the highlight of yesterday's ceremonies in Tacoma at which 800 Rotarians are commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the first district convention of Rotary International.

Mr. Scurrah will succeed William J. Dismore, Tacoma, as district governor. Conference business and entertainment was scheduled to continue to-day as the large gathering of clubmen and their ladies celebrated the occasion. Victoria is well represented by a large delegation in the Washington city.

EMPIRE AIDED BY IRISHMAN

Knox D'Arcy and Persian Oil
Activities Told to Gyros By Hugh Matier

The work of an Irishman, Knox D'Arcy, who got oil concessions from the Shah of Persia through his Irish wits, was described to members of the Gyro Club at their luncheon yesterday by Hugh Matier, geologist now with the Union Oil Company of California. The talk was very informal and rambling but very witty.

The late Mr. D'Arcy, the speaker said, had not "gypped" the Persian Government, which now got 16 per cent royalties. In fact, it was men like he to whom the British Empire should be grateful especially when the great value of oil in modern warfare was considered.

Mr. Matier has traveled widely through Persia, Arabia, Egypt and Uganda, and made several interesting observations on the various territories. In Saudi, whose activities in Arabia are now reaching the front pages, described by Mr. Matier as quite a man, somewhat like Cromwell in his fanatic fundamentalism. He was undoubtedly doing a good work in unifying Arabia, but he had better not get near Aden and the sea coast, or the powers would go over him like a steam roller.

There was quite an international situation in those regions now, the speaker continued, and much oil excitement along the Persian Gulf. But though men like D'Arcy and the capitalists who came later, like Lord Greenway and Lord Strathcona, Persia, the world's largest oil producer in the world, was pretty safely in the grip of the British Empire, according to the impression left by Mr. Matier.

D'Arcy, he said, had met the Shah through a connection of 300,000 acres, excluding some territories bordering the then-Czarist Russia, which was trying with British for Persian influence, and also excluding some "sacred" areas.

Mr. Matier paid a compliment to the charm shown by Victoria officials to visitors, mentioning particularly the reception he received from John Hoole and Mrs. A. H. Cree at the Provincial Library. He also noted the philosophical attitude of the inhabitants, pointing out how people in California liked reading the Canadian newspapers because they reflected a society where things were more permanent than among the Australian aborigines, who threw away their blankets every morning because they did not expect to see another night. He also said that at the United Empire Loyalist banquet the other night, the shock of the earthquake did not stop the orderly progression of talks to the mouths of the diners. To him, the shock of the event was all the greater because Napier Denison had been telling him in the afternoon that Victoria never had earthquakes.

Mr. Matier was introduced by Dr. Charles Mess and thanked by Archie Wills.

SPARK PLUG CHANGE WEEK

Champion Sponsors Move
For Car Owners: Results in Past

The tenth annual Champion National Change Week is being celebrated this week, May 7 to May 14, by all Champion spark plug dealers.

According to C. A. Speers, general manager of the Champion Spark Plug Company of Canada, National Change Week has been amazingly successful, each year outstripping the previous one in importance.

Mr. Speers continued: "Champion was first to sponsor the changing of spark plugs every 10,000 miles. Based on years of engineering research and testing, we discovered that after 10,000 miles in one year of service, all spark plugs had deteriorated to such a point that it was no longer good economy to keep them."

Moreover, engine performance—power, speed, acceleration, ease of starting—had all been greatly impaired. "We started advertising this fact to the general public ten years ago. At first it met with cold skepticism. Motor manufacturers, however, soon saw the validity of our argument and started urging that spark plugs be changed every 10,000 miles through their dealers and in their instruction books. Later still, other spark plug companies took up this campaign on behalf of better engine performance and greater operating economy."

"H.M.S. PINAFORE" AGAIN ENJOYED

Eurydice Art Group Repeat Opera: Presentation to Mrs. W. B. McMicking

Before an enthusiastic audience which included the little inmates of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage as special guests, the junior operatic group of the Eurydice Art Club yesterday evening at the Shrine auditorium repeated its performance of the tuneful and gay Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore."

The production was first given at the Empire Theatre about ten days ago, and yesterday evening the young principals and members of the chorus again sang, danced and acted with a vivacity and evident enjoyment which was delightful to see, and augurs well for the success of future productions by this gifted young aggregation of local talent.

During the evening the young principals were presented with many flowers, and Mrs. W. B. McMicking, president of the Eurydice Art Club, received a very beautiful basket of flowers in appreciation of her assistance in the production. Percy McKieburgh, the able producer, and Edgar Holloway, the musical director, also shared in the enthusiastic applause which greeted the performance.

At the close of the performance, the members of the cast were entertained at an informal supper in the lower hall, as guests of Mrs. McMicking. During supper, little Barbara and Bobby McVie, on behalf of the cast, presented Mrs. McMicking with a very handsome silver flower basket and a bouquet of red carnations in tribute to her untiring work in connection with the production.

Sunflowers were cultivated by the Indians long before white men came to America.

BOYCOTT ON BAKERS' BREAD

Manitoba Village Bakes Its Own in Protest Against Price Rise

Canadian Press
Gimli, Man., May 8.—Boycotting all Winnipeg bakers' bread, housewives of this little Lake Winnipeg fishing village turned back to the kneading boards to-day and were again baking their own loaves.

The reason for the boycott was an increase of 1c in the price of Winnipeg bakers' bread, delivered to the seventy-one miles from Winnipeg by train each day.

Saturday night the women of the Icelandic community met and reviewed circumstances leading to high bread costs. They determined to unite against bakers and enlist the aid of Attorney-General W. J. Major, and the Stevens committee of the Commons at Ottawa in their fight for a 5c loaf.

Gimli bakers declared Winnipeg companies had advanced the price of their bread 1c a loaf, and had threatened to undersell local bakers unless they raised their prices also.

DIET OF SCHOOL CHILD ALWAYS IMPORTANT

The mother approaches the period when her child will go to school with the feeling that she may then slough off any worries about his diet.

DOUBLY IMPORTANT

That this is an erroneous idea should be apparent with a moment's consideration. So long as children are growing, the importance of their diet is obvious. The school child is subjected to the infections which are rife in any association with numbers of children. He is the victim of strain in his efforts to get along with other children, to get to school on time, to get his lessons. This strain is reflected in his digestion; so from that point alone the diet cannot be a careless or an indifferent one.

Mrs. A. V. has a six-year-old weighing only thirty-six pounds. She writes: "He is particular about his food. At breakfast he eats a flaked cereal, with milk, nothing more; at noon one-half a baked potato, a little vegetable, glass of milk; at 3 p.m. banana, glass of milk, and cracker; dinner a small serving of lean meat, soup, one slice of bread. I give him milk with some flavoring before he goes to bed at night. He won't take cod liver oil."

"He cries easily but is otherwise a good child. Some mornings his breakfast seems to nauseate him. He suffers from gas. I try to follow your diet list but he is a 'picky.' When I give him marmalade for the gas, he has too many stools. Can you help me?"

Gas is a normal part of the digestive process, and it may follow underfeeding, overfeeding, or the wrong diet. It is a symptom, not an ailment itself.

MORE FOOD

The diet you outlined is too meagre. The child needs home-cooked cereals (wheat, barley, rice) or banana in the morning. He may also have buttered toast and milk or a cup of weak cocoa made with milk.

At noon he should have meat or a hearty dish of macaroni or rice or spaghetti with tomatoes or cheese, several vegetables, and cooked dessert made with milk, such as custard, sage, or cornstarch.

His appetite for the night meal might be improved if you gave only orange juice or some other fruit in the afternoon. Then at night offer cereal again, or baked potato with the meat and vegetables, and a cooked liver oil until June. Meanwhile have him examined by a doctor to rule out any physical handicaps.

To-morrow: "True Colic Results From Digestive Burden."

Alaska Big Game Hunters Come Out

Associated Press
Seward, Alaska, May 8.—A party, including Oscar G. Foellinger, Fort Wayne, Ind., newspaper publisher, Dr. Victor Hilgmann, Dr. Robert H. Kisch, and Dr. J. W. Bowen, the latter president of the Indiana State Medical Board, arrived here yesterday for a two-months' big game hunt on the Kenai Peninsula.

BIG SEASON FOR RESORTS

Two Conventions Totalling 1,000 People For Banff in June

With two large conventions, totalling approximately 1,000 people scheduled to meet at the Banff Springs Hotel in June, combined with a large number of advance reservations for guest space throughout the summer, prospects for the approaching season at the mountain resorts are particularly encouraging, states A. E. Robertson, assistant general manager, C.P.R. western hotels, who is in Victoria to-day from Winnipeg.

"There have been numerous inquiries through our eastern agencies for space by intending visitors to the Rocky Mountain resorts, and with the reservations already made, it is reasonable to expect that the season we are about to enter upon should be one of the best experienced in several years," said Mr. Robertson, who is at the Empress Hotel to-day.

"We are opening the Banff Springs Hotel on June 4 to accommodate the Oxford Group house party, incident to the visit of the British group to this country. It is estimated there will be about 400 groupers at the house party which will continue until June 12."

"June 13, the Banff Springs Hotel will be open for the accommodation of regular guests for the season."

The second big gathering of the month will be the convention of the Sun-Life Assurance Company, at which there will be approximately 500 delegates. It will continue from June 26 to 29 inclusive."

The Pacific Coast would benefit by the visit of many of these delegates, who doubtless would continue their trip to the B.C. coast, said Mr. Robertson.

On June 22 the Chateau Lake Louise at Lake Louise, with J. J. Meredith in charge, will open, as will also the Emerald Lake Chalet, with Mrs. H. B. Jackson as manager, and the bungalow chalets at Wapta, Yoho and Radium Hot Springs. The tea chalets at "The Lake in the Clouds" and Moraine Lake, will also be in operation this summer.

Mr. Robertson, who is leaving for the east by the night boat, plans to stop off at Lake Louise and Banff to supervise final arrangements for the opening of the mountain season.

Market Notes

Lower grades of tomatoes yesterday recorded large reductions in price. The grade 1 product remains at the same level. The drop amounts to 35 cents per crate for grade 2 and to 60 cents for deserts.

Asparagus of exceptional quality is being received from Kamloops and Kelowna to fill the needs of the city's market for which local production is not as yet sufficient.

There are good supplies of cantaloupes on hand in the city at present, and a reduction in price is expected to-morrow.

A shipment of bananas is expected next Friday.

The last shipment of navel oranges from California will reach Victoria on Saturday, Valencia's will take their place for the rest of the season.

YELLS EVERY FIVE MINUTES

London Child's Malady Baffles Doctors; Shrieking For Seven Weeks

London, May 8.—A girl of twelve who for seven weeks has been yelling at five-minute intervals for twelve hours each day is mentioned by a Manchester doctor in The British Medical Journal.

Each yell lasts on an average six seconds and even with the windows of the room closed the doctor says the yells can be heard thirty yards away. He likened the sound to "the terrifying shriek of someone being murdered."

No treatment, it is stated, has so far been of any use, and the doctor asks for helpful suggestions both as to diagnosis and treatment. Fortunately, he writes, up to the present the trouble does not occur at night.

IRRESISTIBLE IMPULSE

This case, one London doctor considers to be an example of the malady known as "psychical tic." In this condition complex but co-ordinated movements are repeated habitually without apparent rhyme or reason.

These tics frequently take the form of explosive utterances, irresistible impulses, repetition of queer sounds and words, and unusual gestures which commonly involve the face or muscles of the larynx.

Treatment should consist of kindly discipline, judicious employment of sedatives, and if possible an immediate change of surroundings, he said. Subsequently, there should be general tonic treatment and a scrutiny of the child's health, particularly in regard to hygiene, diet, education, exercise, and pleasure.

D. Fairbanks Jr. In Stage Play

Associated Press
Manchester, Eng., May 8.—Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Gertrude Lawrence, the English actress whom many friends expect him to marry, appeared on the stage together for the first time here last night.

They had the stage to themselves for twenty minutes in Philip Cleaver's "The Winding Journey." The scene gave a special opportunity to Mr. Lawrence, but little scope to Fairbanks, who evidently was voluntarily ceding a foil for the actress.

OLDSMOBILE

enters the LOW-PRICE FIELD with a brilliant NEW ALL-FEATURE SIX

HERE'S the most important news in Oldsmobile's long history! Today there's a new, air-streamed, All-feature Oldsmobile Six in the low-priced market! Think what this means... Oldsmobile dependability, style and performance are now within the buying capacity of 8 out of 10 Canadian motorists! Let's take a closer look at this automobile.

It is equipped with Knee-Action Wheels to give you the "Floating Ride." Super-Hydraulic Brakes guard your safety. The Ride Stabilizer enables you to take the turns on an "even keel." Centre-Control Steering does away with shimmy. Syncro-Mesh Transmission is silent in all gears. Fisher No-

Draft Ventilation adds to the comfort of long, roomy bodies. The 84-horsepower engine has improved speed, pick-up and economy.

Your first glance gives you an impression of grace and alertness. Your first drive bears out the promise of Oldsmobile's superb streamline. There's style, speed, and flexibility to match the pep of modern youth. And there's comfort and solidity to satisfy the most conservative taste. More than that, there are months and miles of expense-free motoring that make Oldsmobile, at this new low price, your logical car investment for 1934.

KNEE-ACTION WHEELS
This is the biggest mechanical advancement since the self-starter. Each front wheel is mounted independently and cushioned on a strong, flexible coil of its own—controlled by a double-action hydraulic shock absorber. These wheels "walk" over bumps—eliminate jar and bounce.

RISE STABILIZER
Sway and roll at high speed or rounding curves are prevented by a built-in Rise Stabilizer. The new Oldsmobile is always in balance; even when you take a sharp turn you remain relaxed, comfortable; passengers will not careen against cushions.

THE Lone Wolf's Son

By Louis Joseph Vance

"Isquith?"

"Maybe. Or maybe it's the Main Squeeze that gives Freddie his orders—Fish-eye." Crane elucidated, reading Lanyard's blank look. "Leonard Schwartzstein—they've got other names for him in New York, but Fish-eye is the police."

"I remember reading about him in newspaper correspondence from America," Lanyard said with the slowness of a man whose mind is troubled. "You have reason to believe he may be concerned in this affair?"

"If he isn't, you can bet me your life he will be soon as he finds out about it. If this mob wins, and Mrs. Crozier loses and Fish-eye ain't in on the cut, he's liable to act up mean and ask all concerned some pretty pointed questions. But there are so many on board that are close to him, it's the last thing likely that Fish-eye hasn't had a fin in the business from the start. Not that it was my idea, when I drifted in here, to tell you anything to upset you."

Lanyard had a clouded smile. "Frankly, you do give me something to think about."

"It doesn't do any harm, at that, to realize what you're up against." But what I am up against is comparatively a simple affair, the worst that can happen to me is to be haled back to France, the hapless victim of a dolt and a viper, Captain Pascal, and Pion—"

"That's if you don't pier yourself out of this jam."

"I shall, naturally, invoke every power at the disposal of a French citizen—"

"I'll back you to be strolling up Fifth Avenue, foot loose, before some folks we know find that you're a French citizen."

"You have more faith in me than I have then, my friend. But my plight, as I say, is elementary, no matter how annoying; we know what I am up against. It is not for this unhappy boy, my son, alone in a strange land and at the mercy of as formidable an organization of criminals."

"That brings us to one question I wanted to ask you: what can I do to make your mind easy?"

"Look Maurice up, keep an eye on him, counsel and guide him—"

"Trust me."

"How very kind you are!"

"Who, me? Kind?" Crane grinned. "Don't kid yourself, just interested. Every time I run into you, I feel like a movie fan—just can't wait to see what's going to happen next. Next question is: what else can I do for you?"

"You are so generously ready, my friend, you almost make me sorry there is nothing I can do of any more than you have already promised. Maurice will probably be at the dock to meet me; if by any chance he is not, you will surely be waiting at the Walpole, where we arranged to rendezvous. Tell him for me, please, I shall get in immediate touch tomorrow morning with the American branch of DeBeers, secure the attendance of its legal adviser and call on the French consul to help bring this imbecile of a captain to his senses. If Maurice can be of any assistance, that I shall not fail to call on him. In the meantime, he is not to fret on my account. And yet—"

Crane, who had crossed to look through the window port, turned back. "We'll be in dock inside two minutes," he said. "What else is on your mind, old timer?"

"I am anxious lest Maurice, left to himself, fall in with Madame Boyce again. She's a dangerous creature, and he's vain with the vanity of his age, susceptible to flattery, impressionable. It was you who heard her try to sap his faith in me last night. Tell the boy, then, will you, to call in his rooms at the Walpole to-night, as soon as telephone connections between the ship and the pier switchboard are established. If he has something to wait for—"

"O.K.—I won't forget. If you think of anything you want to say to me, here's a private number—the place in town I keep to flop in when rush of business prevents my getting out to the wife in Larchmont. So long."

The detective discovered sudden haste, "and don't eat your heart out. A person can't always tell what's best for him. Maybe you're getting the breaks after all, only the time ain't come yet for you to know it. It wouldn't surprise me. You get that way when you've studied the underside of human nature as long as I have. Why, I wasn't surprised even if it turned out that this Pion wasn't just a pill."

Left alone to ruminate Crane's intelligence through evening hours so dismal, with the vessel at dead run, the pulsations of its normal life all stilled, that it was possible to figure one's self the only undead tenant of a necropolis—when, indeed, even the commotion of breaking out cargo, distant calls and whistles and racket of winches, sounded like the cawings of cemetery crows—Lanyard found his thoughts ever and again reverting to the last thing Crane had said on leaving.

Nothing made it memorable, it's true, except that he need not have said it. Nothing in the superficial sense of his observation, nothing in the spirit of the moment, accounted for his having dragged Pion back into his remarks by the ears. There must, then, Lanyard argued, have been some ulterior reason, something on Crane's mind that he had not told him so much as hinted at.

The hour drew on to midnight. Since the ship had docked, no one had come near him; the steward who had served his dinner, cleared away, and then, seemingly, withdrawn to some retreat where room service calls could not reach him. So had the telephone apparently been throttled—whether or not shore connections had been established, Lanyard had no means of knowing; the ship switchboard simply wouldn't answer while the ship was in the dock—while the ship was in the dock—while the ship was in the dock—response, and the guard who marched the deck outside, apparently to be haled from the window. Not only, in other words, had he been unable to talk with Maurice at the Walpole, but the letters and telegrams had been bade fair to stand overnight undisturbed. The man was nursing, consequently, the devil's own temper when, without warning other than the click of a well-oiled lock, the door opened. Pion entered, shut and locked it behind him, and turning, trained on the prisoner his flickering grey smirk.

"Bon soir, monsieur," he mouthed. "If you will forgive the impertinence as well as the intrusion, permit me to say it is with deep gratification that I see you in your natural state."

at last—Monsieur le Loup Solitaire to the life!"

"But gratification, monsieur," Lanyard bitterly replied without rising. "If one is at all acquainted with your spirit, is a poor name for your emotion."

"I doubt if there is any man alive so ill qualified to claim acquaintance with my spirit. Not that I blame you, monsieur, for that. Pion hastened to add, "If any man was ever misled by appearances, I never knew him. Be good enough to believe, monsieur, that you behold in me a friend."

Lanyard, having looked the creature up and down, slightly lifted one shoulder and one corner of his mouth. "As well ask me to believe I behold in you an honest man."

"Ah, no, monsieur," the agent of the Surete protested. "That I grant you, would be too much. After all, from the start of this, I have my weaknesses. Consider that I, too, I who stand before you, am a thief."

"Indeed? And is one expected, in response to that, to say: 'And in what way, monsieur, a thief?'"

"But it is not a jest that one makes with you; it is a confession. It is even more—a confession."

WHY RIDICULOUS?

business could have carried on at all, not even the government itself. There are far too many half-brained schemes going round amongst our politicians, far too much talking and little action. For instance, the British Columbia government appears to have taken no steps to economize, but rather the contrary; futile trips to Ottawa, an extra M.P.P. increased grants, and so on.

I have heard of no instance of their trying to cut expenses, like some of our larger industries have done. A railroad president has voluntarily reduced his salary 40 per cent and his directors by 25 per cent in an effort to help make ends meet. I have yet to hear of any political minister or member of parliament offering to reduce his. On the contrary, there is extra money being spent on administration.

Let parliaments make reductions of this sort and then the people may believe they are in earnest and mean what they are saying. Let politicians get their heads out of the clouds, or rather fog, and take a look at the earth where their jobs are. I have often wondered but am not sufficiently enlightened on the subject, whether it would be possible to arrange the spending of the money for the country's upkeep after it has been collected, and not on an estimated income which they may or may not be able to collect. The present national debt proves the present system very far wrong. How long would any private citizen be able to carry on with such management? I would consider it bankrupt before it started.

I would hesitate to convey the impression that I consider Mr. McGeer's speech to be entirely beside the point. Where he remarks: "Instead of being proud of being public men we should wonder why the people let us live." This in a general way expresses the sentiments, I think, of most of the ordinary common sense business men of the country. How then does Mr. McGeer reconcile it with his conscience to entrust the "public men" (politicians) he refers to, with the management of the country's most important business? I refer to banking.

LIBERALISM

To the Editor: - After Bruce Hutchinson's eulogy of Mackenzie King, one seems to see the Liberal banner emblazoned with the now familiar device, "All hope abandon, ye who enter here." Speaking as a disappointed looker-on, I want to say that if Mackenzie King has uttered one pregnant sentence this last nine years - my period of observation - well, I have missed it.

He may have been a "sound" economist in Adam Smith's day, but this is another day.

Isn't this the same King who was mixed up in the Beusharnold deal?

"Give us a light by which to steer. When fog, with death-like hand, Has chilled the voice aloft that called."

"What, ho! the Promised Land!" Oh, Bruce Hutchinson! What'll the little boy next door think of you?

Sidney, May 7.

STATE MEDICINE

To the Editor: - Most people seem in agreement that the time has come for some form of state medical service. The main trouble is that there are various interests that are strongly opposed to any move in this direction and the governing bodies of the province have to be convinced that there is an active, widespread desire for action along this line before anything definite can be expected. Whether the system adopted should be contributory or not can be decided at the time of legislation and is really immaterial, as the people as a whole eventually pay the bills. The bill paid by Canadians for patent medicines and cure-alls would come close to financing the present medical service for all Canada.

In a well-thought-out national system the proper emphasis could be placed on the prevention of sickness and eventually when the general public is educated on the proper lines, several diseases will be practically eliminated and the general health standard will be greatly raised.

Another aspect is that the medical and nursing professions could take their proper place in the community. At present the old adage illustrates our attitude to them: "When the devil was sick, the devil a saint would be." Our treatment of them has made many worthy members of both professions wonder whether high ideals of service are economically possible.

Finally, one wonders whether much of your valuable space which is taken up with letters which can only interest and benefit a few readers would not be more profitably used in a discussion of this subject, which would benefit the whole community. Surely there could be developed, from the world-wide experience of the people of Vancouver Island, coupled with the splendid editorial leadership which our papers have always shown, an adequate and efficient system which would cover our needs and encourage the proper development of medical care.

FIREMEN'S WAGES

To the Editor: - "Property Poor" says the work of a fireman is not hard, but only monotonous, and no more dangerous than the house-builder or shingler meets day by day. Then he suggests a wage of $100 a month. Now, the work of a logger is not only hard, but far more dangerous than the fireman's job. The Industrial Relations Board has fixed the wage of a logger at $3.30 a day, which works out at around $75 a month. Why, then, should a fireman have more than a logger, especially as a logger does not get free clothes and boots, and is filled with powerful dramatic situations and romance in his sweetest scene, coupled with a really superb portrayal of a most difficult role by Barbara Stanwyck. W. MILLIGAN, AN APPRECIATION AND A PROPHECY

To the Editor: - On behalf of the public no less than on behalf of our association, may I express publicly our gratitude to the owners of the gardens that were recently thrown open to us.

That the opportunity was appreciated by the public is shown by the fact that very nearly 1,000 people visited one or more of the fourteen gardens and by the congratulations showered upon our committee. It is no less gratifying to be told as I have been told by all the owners of the gardens that I have spoken to since, that they enjoyed having the people come in because all who came were so full of appreciation and, in spite of the large total, at no time were there too many people in any one garden for comfort, and no damage was done.

The success of the experiment justifies us in planning to repeat it in future years. With the experience gained this year we shall dare to ask for many more gardens, and to spread the festival over more than one day. The public-spirited and generous response of the owners of the gardens, the help given by the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, and also, Sir, the publicity given by you in your columns, produced results this year for which our association is profoundly grateful. With the same co-operation in future years, we are confident that we can establish an "April Flower Festival" that will draw many visitors to Victoria at a time when the prairies and eastern Canada are either still frozen or a sea of mud and half-thawed snowdrifts.

Barbara Stanwyck Has Leading Role in "Gambling Lady" Opening To-day

A remarkable plot, unusual and gripping, replete with fast, thrilling action, and filled with powerful dramatic situations and romance in its sweetest scene, coupled with a really superb portrayal of a most difficult role by Barbara Stanwyck, marked the local premiere of that famous star in the Warner Bros. production of "Gambling Lady" at the Dominion Theatre to-day.

"Gambling Lady," a success from the moment of its Hollywood preview, has a record of praise from the severest motion picture critics, and the reason was clearly shown in the intense interest with which the audience followed the career of the heroine, a young lady who gambled for a living, but never compromised with her own code of honor either in life or love.

"Havana Widows," now being shown at the Columbia Theatre, is a hilarious comedy dealing with the somewhat daring adventures of a couple of Broadway burlesque queens on a millionaire hunt in Havana. Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell have the leading roles in this snappy, wisecracking comedy and are aided by other comedy screen favorites, namely, Allen Jenkins, Frank McHugh, Guy Kibbee, Ruth Donnelly and Lyle Talbot.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

TWO VICTORIES within a world championship, today by William Torchy Peden, Victoria's great six-day bicycle rider. On Saturday night at Toronto Peden climaxed a brilliant winter's campaign on the pine tracks by scoring his fifth consecutive victory. Peden's success was shared by little Jules Audy, Montreal, who also partnered him in his successful race at Montreal a couple of weeks ago. Peden, since he started riding in October, 1929, has won twenty-four rides to nowhere, leaving him just two behind Piet Van Kempen. Holland, present holder of the championship of the world.

Van Kempen has experienced a bad year and unless he does his record fall into the hands of the giant Torchy. At his present rate Peden is a cinch to establish an all-time record that will likely never be beaten. Peden has now won five successive races on two occasions. The first time was in 1932 when he took events at Montreal, Chicago, Minneapolis, New York and Milwaukee. Alfred Letourner, France, is the only other rider that has ever won five successive races. The six-day race season is completed and Peden will now take part in outdoor races at tracks located at Coney Island, Newark, and other eastern points. It is not likely he will be home to visit his parents for several months.

In trying to talk himself into a major league uniform, Sam Gray talked himself into a world. The veteran right-hander's trouble with Rogers Hornsby amounted to nothing more than a wisecrack in regard to a St. Louis suit. Despite Louis B. Von Weisse and the ice and coal millions back of the St. Louis Browns, it appears that the club is retreating. "So is the St. Louis public, in so far as the American League is concerned. An opening day low was set there the other day when the Cleveland outfit was paid off on 4,000 paid admissions.

Well, only twenty-eight new uniforms were purchased, and when Gray dropped around for his, he was handed a 1933 model that had been dry cleaned.

"Don't I rate a new uniform?" he demanded.

The quartermaster explained the shortage.

Gray, who barely was hanging on, anyway, carried his case to Hornsby, and when new duds were not forthcoming, grunted: "Huh. A big league ball club in the minors."

You should complain," replied the dominant manager, coldly. "You're a minor league player."

And he was. Gray departed for Milwaukee that night.

Cleveland fans generally are not in sympathy with Wesley Ferrell the once invincible right-hander who remains a violent holdout.

Alva Bailey, who paid the North Carolina $6,000, $5,000, $10,000, $18,000 and $12,000 in that order for the past half dozen years, owes his basic salary of $5,000, with a sliding scale whereby he could collect $11,500 by winning twenty games.

Big, handsome, only twenty-six, and with all the ability in the world, Ferrell should be one of the idols of the sport, but he has an ugly disposition, he always is right and his teammates are wrong. If a curve ball is cracked, the catcher should have prescribed a fast one.

Ferrell has walked from the box a half dozen times with no one warned. On other occasions he has declined to leave the premises when paged. The young man was fined $500 and suspended for ten days in Boston last summer when he refused to bow out when ordered to by Roger Peckinpaugh.

Because he was a splendid hitter as a pitcher, Ferrell, six feet two and weighing 190 pounds, had an idea he was another Babe Ruth.

But last August, when he decided he was finished as a pitcher, he discovered that poking the pill daily was a much more perplexing problem than being up there every fourth or fifth day. His average fell to .250 and he gave an excellent imitation of a wooden Indian in left field.

General Manager Billy Evans said Cleveland would accept an infielder like Eddy Meyer, of Washington, for Ferrell, and what club wouldn't under the circumstances.

Evans believes Cleveland has a second Lou Gehrig in Hal Trosky, who crashed the large show in his third year in the organized game.

The Indians have two of the best young infielders in baseball in Trosky and shortstop Bill Knickerbocker.

With the polished Willie Kamm at third, a steady influence at second base, where Eddie Moore is filling, might switch the American League pennant parade from the Athletics toward the first time in fourteen falls.

Intercity, League, Knockout, Friendly Matches Scheduled

Games Arranged With Vancouver and Seattle By Victoria Eleven

SEASON TO END SEPTEMBER 15

While friendly matches, started last Saturday, will continue each week until May 26, actual league fixtures in Victoria's cricket will not start until June 2, it was announced by Percy C. Payne, president of the cricket association to-day, as he released the schedule for this season's play.

Outstanding early fixtures will include a match on May 24 between a team composed of the Five C's and Albions and Victoria and the Wanderers.

Six teams form the league again this year, Victoria, Wanderers, Cowichan, Incogs, Albions and Five C's being listed for regular play, while University School and Shawinigan are gaining valuable experience with friendlies against the senior teams.

In addition to league play and friendly fixtures, the schedule also includes a knockout competition and games with teams from points outside Victoria.

The first of the home and home series with Vancouver will be played by the Saturday leaguers in Vancouver on June 2. On the same date Vancouver Wednesday will play the local midweek all-star eleven at Beacon Hill. The Terminal City week-end all-stars will be seen in action on Labor Day in the return engagement.

Those in charge of the fixture list for the year have so arranged the schedule that all teams will be given continuous action, those being eliminated in the knockout league securing friendlies among themselves as the victors press on in quest of the trophy.

Carl Reynolds Is Brilliant

Boston Outfielder Sets Sensational Pace For American League Batsmen

Boston, May 8.—The flickle baseball gods, who have hit him from behind many times during his seven years in the majors, now appear to be pulling Carl Reynolds along as that Boston Red Sox outfielder races for the American League batting honors.

Just now the popular Reynolds, of that rare species known as "a ball player's ballplayer," is several laps ahead of his closest rival, with a slugging average of .507 for seventeen games, and going stronger every day. One gets the impression repentant fates are trying to repay him for the cruel trick played upon him two years ago, when, while hitting a 340 clip for the Washington Senators as late as July, Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, shattered his batting championship dreams with a right to the jaw.

The blow caused a fracture, which gave Reynolds months of agony and finally a stomach disorder that hampered his play during all of the 1933 season.

Hunttng Cup Won By Mainland Women

Defeat Defending Victoria Golfers 9 1/2 to 2 1/2 in Annual Match Yesterday at Vancouver; B.C. Championship Under Way To-day

Vancouver, May 8.—More than fifty of British Columbia's leading women golfers teed off to-day for the qualifying round of the provincial championships over the Jericho Course. A large Victoria entry, led by Mrs. E. Jackson, city champion, and Mrs. B. R. Philbrick, runner-up in 1933, promised stiff competition for the coveted title.

Twelve players from the Victoria and Colwood Clubs in Victoria failed yesterday to defend the intercity championship and the Hunttng Cup when they lost by 9 1/2 points to 2 1/2 to a Vancouver team. The invaders won only two of their matches while one was drawn.

Mrs. E. Jackson of the Uplands and Colwood Clubs, took the measure of Mrs. S. C. Sweeney, 1 up, in the most spectacular match of the competition. Peggy Hodgson, Colwood, accounted for the visitors' other victory, downing Mrs. J. J. Mason, 1 up.

Mrs. K. C. Allen, Victoria, and Dorothy Schwenger, battled around the eighteen holes to finish all square. Neither player was able to get more than a one-hole advantage at any time.

On Sunday at the Uplands Golf Club Ken Lawson will open defence of his club championship with the staging of the thirty-six-hole qualifying round. The sixteen low scorers will gain the championship flight, with the remainder to be divided into flights. Members with handicaps under seventeen are eligible to take part in the tournament. Entries will close on Friday at 4 o'clock.

Lawson demonstrated last Saturday he is on the top of his game by capturing the junior championship of the club.

Lawson's two most serious challengers are expected to be Bob Morrison, present city titleholder, and Harold Brynjolfsson, former B.C. champion and club titleholder. Brynjolfsson has been out of competitive golf for several months but his golf is just as sound as ever. Other threats will be Bobby Ford, last year's finalist, and Harold Pretty, former junior champion of the club and runner-up last year for the city.

Match play will commence the following Sunday with the first and second rounds carded. The defeated eight in the first round of the championship will form the first flight.

Winnipeg Stables Destroyed By Fire

Winnipeg, May 8.—Fire yesterday evening wiped out a landmark in Winnipeg's sports history. Starting from unknown origin, flames destroyed horse racing stables at River Park which had been unused since 1925. The loss was only about $1,000, officials of the Winnipeg Electric Company, owners of the stables, said. At one time they formed part of Winnipeg's senior racing centre.

Facing was the big feature of the park track. Main Direct and Phil Patch were among the star performers of a decade ago.

BRITISH GOLF SIDE IN FORM

Members of Walker Cup Team Turn in Creditable Scores at St. Andrews

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 8.—Golf balls flew far and true for four members of the British Walker Cup team yesterday, and British hopes for a good showing in the team match against the United States went upward.

In the face of a biting northwest wind, Eric MacRae toured the hazardous course in 74, three less than he needed. Harry Bentley and Jack MacLean compiled creditable 75 and Sam McKinley breezed around in 75. In the morning McKinley and Jack had 77 like MacRae, while Bentley required one stroke more.

The United States cupmen also practiced diligently, trying to solve the lightning-fast putting carpets, and to shun the yawning bunkers.

Will Attempt Trip Across The Arctic
CHLEDAR AT OGDEN POINT

Ss. Krassin Leaves Union Bay to Pick Up Russians in North and Take Them to Vladivostok; Will Then Attempt Passage From Pacific to White Sea
Union Bay, May 8.—Bound for the Arctic and a hazardous voyage across the top of the world, the Russian icebreaker Krassin left here yesterday after loading 2,400 tons of coal.
The icebreaker left Leningrad for the Siberian Arctic to rescue a party of 101 Russians stranded on an ice floe when their vessel, the Obelusk, was crushed and sank. Russian air-planes accompanied the rescue, however, and the Krassin is now heading for the Gulf of Anadyr, where the refugees are camped, to pick them up and transport them to some point on the Siberian coast to the south.
Probably at Petropavlovsk, she will meet a collier out of Vladivostok, renew her bunkers, and return to the Arctic to attempt the voyage from the Pacific to the White Sea.
Three vessels have accomplished this in the past, but several others have failed.
The vessel carries 153 men and four women, including medical and scientific authorities, the ship's master, and the Krassin is now headed for the Gulf of Anadyr, where the refugees are camped, to pick them up and transport them to some point on the Siberian coast to the south.
Probably at Petropavlovsk, she will meet a collier out of Vladivostok, renew her bunkers, and return to the Arctic to attempt the voyage from the Pacific to the White Sea.

SEND LUMBER TO BYRD SHIP
Ss. Golden Cloud to Take Douglas Fir to New Zealand For Ss. Bear of Oakland

Seattle, May 8.—When the Oceanic and Oriental Navigation Company's freighter Golden Cloud sails from Seattle, May 12, for the Antipodes, she will have Douglas fir timbers for the steamship Bear of Oakland, flagship of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition in Little America, near the South Pole, was jammed to-day from representatives of the Matson Navigation Company, agent for the O. and O. fleet.
The Bear of Oakland, formerly the cargo ship, is on her way to New Zealand with her bowsprit smashed and other damage as a result of a storm encountered at latitude sixty-five degrees south.
A wireless message from Capt. Robert English, master of the Bear of Oakland, asked that Douglas fir timbers for one mast seventy-five feet long and twenty-five inches in diameter, and for a girth boom forty-five feet long and fifteen inches in diameter, measured at the smallest end, be shipped to the Byrd Antarctic expedition, care of H. L. Tappley & Co., in Dunedin, New Zealand.
It is probable that the timbers will be donated by Northwest Lumber interests and the freight charges by the Matson Navigation Company.

TWO SEAMEN ARE RESCUED

Halifax, May 8.—Weak from the rigors of three days in a drifting dory, two seamen from the French fishing vessel Anne de Bretagne rescued to-day on land after their rescue at sea.
Pernst Victor and Hamon Joseph, the seamen, were brought into Halifax aboard the Lunenburg motor-vessel Bessemer, which picked them from their dory as the tiny craft wallowed helplessly in the Atlantic rollers off Newfoundland's Grand Bank.
They had set out in a dory from their schooner for a day's fishing, but heavy fog cut them off from the fishermen.

HAZARDOUS TRIP ENDS

St. John's, May 8.—Traveling down from northern Newfoundland with a funeral as companion, Constable Frank Clarke has completed one of the most hazardous assignments on police records.
A motorboat, a dog team and a dory had to be used at different stages of the long journey from Brian's Cove to the Government railway, and several times the burly constable and his charge were near death.
In places they had to jump ice-floes, dragging the dory along. Sometimes the lunatic was good companion, sometimes troublesome. Clarke had to watch him constantly and one night when he was forced to sleep with him the lunatic attacked him in an effort to escape.
Constable Clarke faces a long hard journey to get back to his northern station at La Seie but he says: "However, I don't mind it so much—the cargo will be lighter."

Associated Press
London, May 8.—The London Post suggests that some leaders abroad—"not excluding Hitler"—should read President Franklin D. Roosevelt's new book "If I were a Rich Man."
The British edition of the United States President's work, "On Our Way," which appeared yesterday, was greeted with cordial recognition by London newspapers.
The Post, sometimes a severe critic of the United States, printed an editorial which said:
"Whatever verdict history may pass on the President's work as a whole, it may be participated with certainty that it will account him without controversy the saviour of his country at one of the darkest hours in her annals."

Coast Longshoremen To Strike To-morrow

Ports All Along the Pacific Coast Will Be Tied Up; Association President Says Men Tired of Waiting For Mediation Board's Action
San Francisco, May 8.—Pacific Coast shipping faced a general tie-up threat to-day as brawny longshoremen at all major ports prepared to strike at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning.
William J. Lewis, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (Pacific division), declared 12,000 dock workers will walk out in support of demands for higher pay and shorter hours. In a final effort to prevent the strike, members of a mediation board appointed a month ago by President Roosevelt, called a meeting here, Judge Charles A. Reynolds, district chairman for the National labor board in Seattle, is expected by airplane to-day. Other members of the mediation board, Dr. J. L. Leonard of Los Angeles and Dr. Henry Grady of San Francisco, who have been absent in Washington, were hastily summoned.

PREPARING PLANT
Thomas G. Flant, spokesman for the San Francisco shipping companies and members of a conference committee said a formal statement of the employers' position is being prepared.
Authorities here took steps to prevent disorders by assigning extra police to duty along the waterfront. Similar action was reported at other ports.
San Francisco's 2,000 members of the Longshoremen's Association voted yesterday evening in favor of the strike. At Seattle, Dewey Bennett, secretary of the local union, declared 1,500 stevedores will walk out. Mr. Lewis declared locals at San Pedro, Oakland, San Diego, Tacoma, Aberdeen, Everett and other ports had notified him they will drop work at the specified hour.
Lewis asserted the longshoremen were tired of waiting for action through the Mediation Board on their demand for a thirty-hour week at one dollar an hour. The strike would mean a forty-eight-hour week at eighty-five cents an hour.
A previous strike call set for March 23 was withdrawn after the appointment of the mediation board, which held hearings here and recommended that committees representing employers and workers seek to reach agreement.
